ABOUT LT JOHN M LEONARD, CFD:

John Leonard was a dedicated family man, friend, and Chicago firefighter. After fighting lung cancer valiantly, John succumbed to the disease on January 19, 2015. He left behind a legacy and some big boots to fill. Whether it was by being a lieutenant on the Chicago Fire Department, an instructor for the Illinois Fire Services Institute, a football coach at Saint Patrick High School, or the leader of the Merrimac Park Youth Council, John touched lives everywhere he went.

ABOUT SAINT PATRICK HIGH SCHOOL:

Saint Patrick High School is the oldest Catholic all-male high school in the city of Chicago and the oldest school operated by the Chicago Province of the Christian Brothers. Each year, Saint Patrick's student body of more than 650 boys represents over 100 elementary schools and 50 zip codes from the northwest side of Chicago and outlying suburbs. Saint Patrick welcomes students of all religious beliefs, varying academic abilities, and diverse ethnic and economic backgrounds. Lasallian in its teachings, St. Pat's traditionally serves working class families and provides financial aid to students who need help attending the school. Saint Patrick proudly helps 45% of its students and families annually with tuition assistance.
